

I'm Jane Rooney, Canada's Financial Literacy Leader, and I'm here to talk to you about your money. Starting this year, investors will receive two new personalized reports that will help them understand how their investments are performing and what fees they are paying. The information you receive is unique to you because it factors in the timing of your deposits and withdrawals.

This information is now at your fingertips, and I urge you to find out more and take charge of your money.

My role as Financial Literacy leader is to help strengthen the financial literacy of Canadians and their families. I believe that knowledge empowers Canadians to make responsible financial decisions. Good work is being done by the investment industry across the country, and it's time for you to take note and learn more. Remember, it's your money. Find out more.
