Ira Nishisato

National Leader, Cybersecurity and Cyber-Risk Management Group
Borden Ladner Gervais LLP

Ira Nishisato is National Leader of the Cybersecurity and Cyber-Risk Management Group at Borden Ladner Gervais LLP in Toronto. Ira focuses on cybersecurity and cybercrime litigation, complex commercial litigation, commercial fraud and investigations. He has specific expertise in injunctions and extraordinary preliminary, provisional and interlocutory remedies, including civil seizure orders, asset freezing orders, and equitable discovery orders, as well as international and multi-jurisdictional disputes.

Ira has advised numerous clients on technology and internet-related disputes and has served as “breach coach” in managing teams responding to data breaches and cybersecurity investigations. He has obtained injunctions for financial institutions and other clients that have experienced massive data breach intrusions and assisted in developing unique legal remedies to address such breaches. Ira was lead counsel in the first major cyber-extortion case in Canada, Oppenheimer & Co. Inc. v. Blue-Dot Consulting Inc. in 2005, and has been recognized as a leading lawyer in cybersecurity and data breach cases since that time. Ira is also a frequent commentator on data breach issues in national and international media and publications. He currently serves as Senior Co-Chair of the Litigation Committee of the International Bar Association (IBA) and is recognized in many legal ranking publications.
